WEEKLY Horoscopes

for December 25 - 31

ARIES – Mar 21/Apr 20
If you are feeling half-hearted about what you are working on, then put it off for a little bit and focus on something more interesting this week, Aries. You can use the rest.

TAURUS – Apr 21/May 21
Make it your business to remind others not to take life so seriously this week, Taurus. The best way to do that is to show them how to laugh by example.

GEMINI – May 22/Jun 21
Your thoughts are on an important decision that you need to make, Gemini. It's best to wait a few days before you get into the thick of things. You need to mull all possibilities.

CANCER – Jun 22/Jul 22
Cancer, you may have the courage and the confidence to deal with whatever life throws at you right now, but not everyone is as dedicated as you. Make allowances for others this week.

LEO – Jul 23/Aug 23
Sensitive feelings are coming to the surface this week and you are not sure what to do about them, Leo. You won't find peace of mind until you have dealt with them thoroughly.

VIRGO – Aug 24/Sept 22
Virgo, some unexpected news could come your way between now and the weekend. It may seem like a lot, but in the grand scheme of things, it will only be a minor issue.

LIBRA – Sept 23/Oct 23
You have reason to be suspicious of someone's motives this week. Just don't go to extremes and start reading into every message or nuance, Libra.

SCORPIO – Oct 24/Nov 22
Scorpio, you might look super confident on the outside, but underneath you get anxious like everyone else. At some point this week you may need to ask for some help.

Holiday Potlucks

Tis the Season for Food!

Whether it's a company potluck, church luncheon, or family buffet, easy, transportable meals are in high demand during the holidays. The staff here at the Exchange love a good potluck.

Here are some of our favorite dishes for sharing:

MEATBALLS

Italian, barbecue, sweet and sour, or Swedish, meatballs topped our list! Easy to make, easy to transport, and tasty on their own or with pasta.

RAMEN NOODLE SALAD

What?!? Ramen noodles and cabbage?? You betcha! An easy go-to. A bag of coleslaw mix, uncooked ramen all crunched up and your favorite vinaigrette! Easy peasy!

DEVILED EGGS

Always fun, always festive and can be made in many ways: spicy? Add some sriracha and diced jalapeños. Sweet? A little sweet relish is tasty. Tangy? Add a touch of chutney. And Traditional is always welcome at our table!

MAC & CHEESE

We're not talking Kraft. Homemade mac and cheese is a dish that can be personalized easily by using your favorite cheeses, whether that's asiago, gruyere, gouda, havarti, even brie. Topped with crushed potato chips, crackers, Panko or just more cheese, mac and cheese is a favorite comfort food.

DESSERTS

Whether it's Grandmom's cookie recipe or Auntie Sylvie's best pumpkin pie, desserts are a definite favorite at the Exchange potluck. And to be honest, if you're hard-pressed for time, you can get a good dessert at your local bakery and be just as proud as making one yourself!

OPERATION DOG TAG

OperationDogTag.org

My name is Corrin Fields and I am a Navy veteran and former EMT. Operation Dog Tag and Joe have saved my life and helped me become a more present mother to my kids. I suffer from many symptoms of debilitating PTSD and I am unable to use my left arm. I was close to becoming one of the 22 veterans a day who commit suicide prior to meeting Joe and learning about his program. I still suffer with severe anxiety, night terrors, dissociative states and other symptoms, but now with Tucker, my Golden Retriever, by my side, I am able to cope with them. I have been able to start therapy knowing Tucker is with me and that I am safe. I have even been able to attend my son's football games with Tucker, who has become the team's mascot! With the help of Joe and Tucker I have been given the opportunity to not only function, but live again.

Please- as your sister in arms, reach out to Operation Dog Tag, it can save your life too.
Thank you so much Joe!
Corrin Fields, Navy Seabee

Fishing Magician

Dave Longhine

Reach Dave @ www.FishingMagician.com or FishBoy@nwi.net "The Outdoor Insider"

Things are finally getting back to normal here in Leavenworth, after the storm that knocked us out of electricity and downed huge trees all over town. The usual Christmas Lighting crowds didn't show up, as travel over the passes was very challenging. Tumwater Canyon was closed, due to the road washouts. Now I am planning a sweep through the area to check on several fisheries.

I got way behind on my recent fishing plans. The storm has something to do with it, and there were some other necessary interruptions that kept me from getting too far from home and getting out to some of my favorite fishing spots. High on my list is fishing from the shore at Rufus Woods Reservoir. I like to fish at two different areas. One is at Brandts Landing and the other is at the middle net pens. Both places have provided me with some great catches in the winter over the years. I have had to cancel at least two trips to Brandts Landing, and I hope I can make the planned visit to the middle net pens site this week. I have tied up a bunch of leaders, got a couple of rod holders and stocked up on Power Bait and marshmallows and shrimp, so I am ready to go. I want to remind anglers that a Colville Tribal Access Permit and fishing license is not required to fish at Brandts Landing. However, at the Colville Net Pens site, a Tribal Access Permit is required and can be purchased at a kiosk as you enter. The cost is $20.00 per day, per vehicle. Your Washington State fishing license covers you at this site. Since the flow of the Columbia River is controlled by the dams, I don't expect the high water issues that have plagued the other rivers in our region. I will let you know how I do. This week's photo is of my friend James Lebow reeling in a rainbow at Brandts Landing last season.

Something I am always very interested in is the annual Columbia River Adult Salmon Returns report. The report forecasts what the Department of Fish and Wildlife expects to see in 2026 and also gives the numbers for last year's return and forecasts. It has just been released and there is good news and bad news. Anglers who enjoy fishing for spring salmon can look forward to even better fishing than they did last year. The number of springers returning to the Columbia continues to climb. Not all tributaries in the lower river are increasing but the total return is up significantly. Up here in our region things are different. The return of summer salmon to the upper Columbia is anticipated to be up over last year, but not by much. How that season unfolds is something that we will have to wait and see. Hopefully, we won't repeat last season's difficulties and closures. The return of sockeye is also supposed to be lower than last season. Both Lake Wenatchee and Columbia River returns fell short of forecast last year. The return to Lake Wenatchee is forecast to be down by about 10,000 fish. The sockeye may surprise us, though, and come in stronger. Fishing for sockeye on the Columbia was brief and Lake Wenatchee sockeye fishing a challenge. I hope the sockeye are more in a biting mood next summer. I only landed about half as many as the year before.

When I see that there is a break in the rainy weather I think about where I would want to be if I could be out on the water. One of those places is fishing from the shore at Spring Canyon Park on Lake Roosevelt. The park is just a couple of miles out of the town of Grand Coulee Dam and there is easy access to water. I made my first trip to the beach here a few years ago and didn't know what to expect. I cast out two rods baited with a marshmallow and shrimp and walked up the beach a ways to look around. I glanced back at my rods and one of them was skidding across the sand toward the water. I got to it before it got wet and reeled in a 16 inch rainbow. Not long after I got this rod rebaited and back in business, my other rod went off. I wound up with a limit of five trout in about an hour. Needless to say, I have been back to the beach at Spring Canyon many times. I can't say that the action is always this good, but I can't recall getting skunked. Spring Canyon is on my list to visit soon. I remember last year the water got so high on Lake Roosevelt that there wasn't any beach to fish from. A good alternative is fishing from the shore at Crescent Bay, just down the hill from the town of Grand Coulee Dam. Anglers also fish from the shore near the boat launch just above the dam.

One of the benefits of the mild winter we are experiencing this year is that many of the lakes that are open year round are easily accessible. There isn't the snow and ice that would discourage fishing we usually get in the early winter. There are a few very special opportunities on certain lakes that opened the first Friday after Thanksgiving and will remain open until March 31st. Due to the short seasons and since these lakes get less pressure during these cold months fishing should be good to excellent. Stradling Adams and Lincoln counties is 4th of July Lake. The only special rules on this lake is that no internal combustion motors are allowed. In Spokane County the lake with this special season is Hog Canyon Lake, and the lake received two plants of rainbow in October. Also in Spokane County, Williams Lake is open and it got two plants of rainbow in March of this year, prior to the closure. These fish have had plenty of time to grow and should be very good size this winter. In Stevens County, Hatch Lake is now open, and it was planted with rainbow twice in the month of October.

I will be posting several reports and videos of different locations when I hit the road. Be sure to check my website, FishingMagician.com and my Facebook page, FishingMagician.com to check them out.

Real Estate Trends & Advice

ARE YOU VULNERABLE TO A SCAM?

There have always been grifters and scam artists in the world who would love to relieve you of some of your cash. They get away with it every day, sometimes on a large scale, especially in real estate. Savvy brokers are careful to warn buyers and sellers of scammers that try to highjack real estate transactions by intercepting emails between brokers and closers or lenders. They then pose as one of these players with emails that closely resemble the legitimate players email and make urgent requests for the principles (usually the buyer) to deposit their funds into a certain bank account. Successfully duped consumers find out too late that their funds have been stolen and the perpetrators usually walk away without consequences.

These greedy con artists have found another creative and devious method for stealing money from unwary consumers. In a recent case, a broker was contacted by a person who claimed to own a large parcel of vacant land they wanted to sell. The broker spent time preparing the property for marketing, including performing a market analysis, etc. But during that time frame, the broker became suspicious about this person's real identity so they did some research and even asked for identification. The scammer quickly provided a copy of a fake driver license.

While the broker was waiting for ID verification, they were busy doing other research, including writing a letter to the real owner, who quickly contacted them and verified that they didn't want to sell and the other person was indeed a scammer. The broker had already figured it out, because the deed showed the property had been transferred to the real owner upon the death of their father on a date prior to the birth date that showed on the fake ID.

In this case the scam was discovered quickly (even though the bad guys were never caught), but if they had been successful in this fraudulent transfer of property, they would have taken a large sum of money from the sale of property they didn't even own. This type of scam is surfacing frequently now, especially in rural property sales on raw land.

Brokers and closers are hyper vigilant for this type of scam and have lots of practice and methods for vetting sellers. If you are a seller of property, please don't be offended when brokers take time to check your identity! If you are a buyer, you should take care to use an experienced broker and not be enticed by something that seems too good to be true!

Dear Family, Friends, Each and Every One Of YOU,

As we enter into this most Holy time of year I feel a deep wave of thankfulness beyond measure to each and every one of YOU. Life is so very short and I just feel the need to express my thoughts for a moment. With the entire journey of "the rapes" back in the 80's & to this very day we ALL have been through quite the experience, if you can call it that! The original trial, the civil commitment trial, the release of Fred "Kevin" Coe this past October and then his death on December 3rd. You, my dear ones, have never stopped sending your thoughts, your support, your prayers and your love. It is through Jesus and YOU that has made it possible to turn something very painful into a lifetime of thanks and love.

I have received so many phone calls, texts, emails, hugs in the grocery store, all of us sticking together through thick and thin. Isn't that what we are called on for? To love one another, no matter what, to protect one another, and go through this thing called LIFE together. As we all begin a New Year together may you always have "sunshine" upon you, prayers in your corner, laughter at your doorstep, and ABOVE all LOVE for each other. If I took my last breath tomorrow I would want to make sure I passed along to each and every one of you how truly humble, grateful, and beyond words my heart is. Jesus and YOU have been MY strength all the way back to that 18 year old Sunshine Shelly little farm girl from Chattaroy!

May God bless you this Christmas and always,
Sunshine Shelly Monahan

A BIG HEART AND FIERCE COMPETITOR: NASCAR REMEMBERS GREG BIFFLE | By Holly Cain, NASCAR Wire Service

DAYTONA BEACH, Florida and (December 18, 2025) — Greg Biffle first made a name for himself in NASCAR for his incredible talent behind the wheel of a race car, but ultimately it was his big heart and generous spirit not just his ability on the race track that may have been the biggest impacts in a much-celebrated life.

The Vancouver, Washington native Biffle, who would have turned 56 on Dec. 22, died of injuries sustained in a plane crash Dec. 18 near the Statesville (N.C.) Regional Airport, just outside Charlotte.

Biffle's wife Cristina and two children, daughter Emma, 14, (with former wife Nicole Lunders) and son Ryder, 5, along with three others: Craig Wadsworth, Dennis Dutton and his son Jake, also perished in the accident.

The Cessna C550 Citation – owned by the retired driver's aviation company – crashed shortly after 10 a.m. ET upon approach to the Statesville airport, which is used extensively in the NASCAR industry. The National Transportation Safety Board and FAA are investigating the accident.

NASCAR released a statement Thursday afternoon: "NASCAR is devastated by the tragic loss of Greg Biffle, his wife Cristina, daughter Emma, son Ryder, Craig Wadsworth and Dennis and Jack Dutton in a fatal plane crash.

Greg was more than a champion driver, he was a beloved member of the NASCAR community, a fierce competitor, and a friend to so many. His passion for racing, his integrity, and his commitment to fans and fellow competitors alike made a lasting impact on the sport.

Beyond his racing career, he gave of himself for the betterment of our community.

Most notably, Greg spent countless hours of his time helping the citizens of North Carolina during the disasters that followed Hurricane Helene. His tireless work saved lives.

The Biffle, Grossu, Dutton and Lunders families released a joint statement late Thursday afternoon that read in part:

"We are devastated by the loss of our loved ones. This tragedy has left all of our families heartbroken beyond words. Greg and Cristina were devoted parents and active philanthropists whose lives were centered around their young son Ryder and Greg's daughter Emma (mother – Nicole Lunders)."

"The Biff" as he was affectionately known in NASCAR circles, was named one of NASCAR's "75 Greatest Drivers" and will obviously be remembered for his multi-championship time in the sport – claiming the 2002 NASCAR Xfinity and 2000 NASCAR CRAFTSMAN Truck Series and hoisting 56 trophies competing in the three national series.

Social media was immediately filled with caring remembrances from baseball great Chipper Jones to championship team owner Chip Ganassi to fellow racers and countless fans. NASCAR Hall of Famers Jeff Gordon and Ron Hornaday Jr. speaking for so many, utterly heartbroken by the news.

"Devastating news," Gordon posted on Twitter. "I had such tremendous respect for Greg as a driver, and we shared countless tough battles on the track. Like so many others, I was inspired by his tireless relief work during Hurricane Helene. My heart goes out to the Biffle family and everyone hurting."

In 2024, Biffle received the prestigious National Motorsports Press Association's Myers Brothers Award for "extraordinary humanitarian efforts," stemming from his work helping so many communities devastated by Hurricane Helene – including a devotion so great he continued to supply aid long after the storm had blown through.

He flew his own helicopter to the ravaged region delivering supplies and was a genuine leader in the overall effort to respond.

"I'm sure there's 1,000,000 other posts out there but it cannot be stated how vital Greg Biffle was in organizing the western NC Helene relief effort which was among one of the largest civilian humanitarian missions ever on American soil," Chris Jackson posted on Twitter alongside photos of Biffle's "relief team" and the helicopter he flew into the area.

"The world didn't just lose a NASCAR great today," he continued. "The world lost a great man and great family that selflessly stepped up and used their resources for the greater good to help total strangers during their greatest time of need."

Those that knew Biffle were hardly surprised at that devotion. His deep passion presented itself in many ways and combined with massive natural talent as a racer helped make Biffle an immediate star in the NASCAR ranks.

The Vancouver, Washington native came on to the scene in the mid-1990s running in the popular NASCAR Winter Heat Series, a rare Pacific Northwesterner making a name for himself in a sport more accustomed to stars from the deep South. But the challenge seemed to inspire and embolden Biffle, who wasted absolutely no time establishing himself as a contender week-in and week-out.

A pair of future NASCAR Hall of Famers, retired driver Benny Parsons and legendary team owner Jack Roush took notice of Biffle when he was racing in the Winter Heat Series and soon Roush hired him to drive his cars.

Biffle made his debut in NASCAR's big leagues for the Roush organization in 1998 and answered with a nine-win Truck Series season in 1999 en route to Rookie of the Year honors. He answered that with five victories in 2000, ultimately hoisting the championship trophy and getting a nod to advance again in his career.

Biffle won five races in his 2001 rookie season in what was then called the NASCAR Busch Series and topped that the next year with the 2002 series championship.

It was more than enough to rightly propel him to the top tier of competition and his pursuit of an unprecedented NASCAR championship sweep – claiming titles in all three premier series.

Biffle won six races and finished runner-up to Tony Stewart for the 2005 NASCAR Cup Series title in only his third fulltime season. He would go on to race 14 seasons, earning 19 career wins – turning in six multiple-win years.

His last NASCAR start – at the age of 52 - came at a Talladega (Ala.) Superspeedway in a five-race part time NASCAR Cup Series schedule in 2022.

Biffle's last victory in one of the marquee series came in 2019 at the age of 49, when he hoisted a NASCAR Craftsman Truck Series trophy at Texas Motor Speedway in his only start of the season – and first series race in 15 years and first win in 19 years.
